Per David's suggestion, I called Jeff this morning and he is sending over the op-eds prepared earlier this year. If you could ship via e-mail the MAN op-eds that have been prepared, I can get started on these pieces immediately since David is looking for placement after the comment period closes. You make the call as to what resource materials to send; I'm not sure what all is available. Because of the time crunch, the sooner I can get going, the better. Also, if you think there should be a very specific focus for one or more of the grower states, that information would be invaluable.

Since the briefing book is a slightly longer term project, I am going to hold off talking to Jeff until after the comment deadline. However, it would be helpful if Dolly or her designee can begin identifying or assembling the information on the variety of topics that will need to be covered in the briefing book. My plan is to generate a brief history, where appropriate, a 2-3 paragraph executive summary of the issue, and a one-pager filling in the details in a tabbed, loose-leaf format. I've already talked to Windy about using one of his people, Maura O'Leary, to help with this project. I'd like to shoot for having this done and legally cleared by late January.
