RE: Project BT-Merchandising Tool

Confirming our conversation, three of the special tools required to modify the 20-column RJR package merchandiser to accommodate 25-count packaging are needed for the research to be conducted on Project BT. You will provide these to me by October 17, and they will be returned to you when the test is completed.

There is also a possibility that prototypes of the vacu-form unit currently being developed to fit BT into the CENTURY-size MCD tray may be available for use during this research. If possible, eight trays would be required no later than October 24. As we discussed, you will let me know next week (week of 10/17) if eight trays will be available.

Thanks in advance for your help.
